

HACK TO IMPROVE YOUR CITY

Pitch a project. Tackle a challenge.
Build a solution. Make a difference.

The National Day of Civic Hacking is an international event for people to focus on improving their community. Thousands of people from around the world will tackle civically-oriented projects around open data, disaster relief, mapping, safety and justice, economic development, and other topics.

Here in San Francisco, we will be doing a 3-day hackathon organized by Code for San Francisco and San Francisco State. Urbanists, civic hackers, developers, designers, marketers, students, government staff, and passionate residents will join together to collaborate on new solutions for our city.
